When asked, "Where are you from?" we often respond with the name of a state, city or town. Yet, in our quietest moments, we remember our childhood roots ...knowing everyone's name, the local hardware store and coffee shop...people sitting on the front porches sharing stories and kids playing in the streets until their names were called to come home.

With progress, technology and development, there is much to be gained.....and lost.

This is the story of HOME TOWN and our humble invitation to that familiar place.
